Judge Callum McKinven co-owns and operates Lookout Holsteins and Jerseys with his wife, Katherine and three daughters, Tara, Brooke, and Alana, in Canton-de-Hatley, Quebec. Born on a dairy farm, Callum graduated from the MacDonald Campus of McGill University with a diploma in agriculture. A dedicated 4-H member, he came to appreciate a good animal, regardless of its breed. He is a respected breeder, showman and judge. Raising over 200 head and milking 30 cows, the McKinven family is active in showing and marketing animals in North America and around the world. They have twice owned the Junior Champion female at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, as well as an Intermediate Champion. The farm has garnered many All-Canadian and All-American awards. Callum is a Canadian Official judge who is internationally renowned having judged in over 31 countries around the world and for all breeds. In North America, he has judged every major show including the National Black and White Holstein show in 1997 and 2012 at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, in addition to judging the Ayrshires, Jerseys and Brown Swiss. Callum has judged at World Dairy Expo eleven times and has also officiated both the Showmanship and Conformation at the TD Canadian 4-H Dairy Classic, as well as the former President's Cup showmanship competition. Callum was the Official Judge for the last two World Holstein Conference shows in Dublin, Ireland in 2008 and in Toronto, Canada in 2012. He also judged the Hokkaido National Show in Japan in 2015. In addition to his judging and showing accomplishments, Callum was the recipient of the Curtis Clark Award presented at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair in 2000.
