Kari Behling dairy farms with her family near Fox Lake, WI, where they milk a mixed herd of 110 Registered Holsteins and Jerseys and crop 800 acres. Kari has been breeding and exhibiting Holsteins since she was a youth. After graduating from UW-Madison, she took a position at Arethusa Farm in Litchfield, CT and cared for the offspring of household names, such as Melanie, Delilah, Vivian and Veronica. Many of those offspring would go onto become famous as well. In 2010 she started her own herd under the Lake-Point prefix and has had much success breeding and exhibiting Holsteins and Jerseys. Her personal highlights have included preparing and exhibiting two class winners and the International Futurity Champion at World Dairy Expo, breeding a cow that went onto be EX95 and developing several EX94 cows, as well as many other Excellent scored Holsteins and Jerseys. Kari is an Inside Sales Representative for STgenetics, assisting dairy producers in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Utah, and Idaho with their genetic needs. Kari enjoys coaching the Dodge County 4-H dairy judging team, spending time with her family and talking cows with fellow dairy enthusiasts.
